GENEVA (AP)—Soviet reluctance to associate the 17-nation disarmament conference with the agreement on a hot line between Washington and Moscow is delaying formal signature of the agreement, it was learned Friday.

American and Soviet communications experts reached full technical accord Tuesday on a direct teletype circuit between the two capitals to reduce the risk of accidental war.

The U.S. government immediately approved the agreement, but approval from the Soviet Union is still pending.

School Subsidy Bill Criticized

HARRISBURG (AP)—A joint committee representing the three major education organizations in the state attacked Friday the administration's school subsidy plan and the Senate Education Committee's version of school reorganization as inadequate.

"We feel very strongly that the subsidy base needs to be flexible enough so that whenever costs of education are increased by state mandate that local districts will be reimbursed accordingly," chairman Winfield Smith said.

"The amount of money prescribed in House Bill 824, the administration school subsidy bill, is inadequate for Pennsylvania to maintain its economic well-being."

Discrimination In State Jobs?

HARRISBURG (AP)—The state Human Relations Commission said Friday it is not planning an investigation of racial disturbances in Philadelphia as Gov. Scranton had suggested.

But within minutes of the announcement, Atty. Gen. Walter E. Alexander urged the commission to make an immediate check for possible racial discrimination in state government construction projects.

Rep. Morgan Gets Walter's Post

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. Thomas E. Morgan of Pennsylvania has been named a member of the House Democratic Patronage Committee.

Morgan fills the vacancy caused by the death of Rep. Francis E. Walter of Pennsylvania.

The three-man committee parceled out hundreds of patronage jobs in the House, ranging from page boys and policemen to assistant doorkeepers.

Zasu Pitts Dead

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Cancer claimed another Hollywood notable Friday — Zasu Pitts, whose thin, wacky voice and innocently bumbling manner amused two generations of Americans. She was 63.

Death came at Good Samaritan Hospital, where she was admitted Thursday night. She lived in Pasadena with her second husband, John E. Woodall, onetime tennis champion and a real estate broker in recent years.

Worker Saved From Rockslide

PARKERSBURG, W. Va. (AP)—Workers Friday rescued a construction worker who was pinned under tons of rock which crashed down from the roof of a Baltimore and Ohio Railroad tunnel.

Another victim of the fall was still missing and believed dead.

Evangelical Units Merge

READING, Pa. (AP)—A new Eastern Conference of the Evangelical United Brethren Church was created Friday when church and lay members formally approved a merger of the Northeastern and East Pennsylvania Conferences.

Stock Market

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market declined irregularly Friday with motors dominating trading. Turnover was active.

It was the second day of very heavy profit-taking in Chrysler which dropped 2 1/2 to 63 1/2 on 251,600 shares. Brokers said it was apparent that some institutional investors were selling to nail down big profits in Chrysler and were switching in to Ford which they regarded as "behind the market."

The Dow Jones industrial average dropped 4 1/2 to 7224 1/2.

Volume was a brisk 5.12 million shares compared with 4.99 million Thursday.

Krebiozen Backers Ask U.S. Test

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sponsors of the disputed cancer drug Krebiozen formally asked the government Friday for permission to continue using it on an experimental basis and for an evaluation by the National Cancer Institute.

The plan was mailed to the Food and Drug Administration by Drs. Andrew C. Ivy and Steven Durovic of Chicago to meet a midnight deadline which, if they had not acted, would have barred giving the drugs to patients any longer.

Ivy estimated that 100 doctors are receiving Krebiozen and it is being given to some 100 patients. He told a news conference about 125 patients have been proved to require the drug to live.

The Welfare Department issued a statement saying "no assurance was given that Krebiozen would continue to be available" except under procedure set down in a law passed by Congress last year. This requires reports in detail of tests with experimental drugs with a plan for continuing investigation and a description of the drug's components.

Ivy said the plan he and Duro-vic submitted asks that the National Cancer Institute conduct a fair scientific test of whether Krebiozen helps humans who have cancer.

He added that he has a "feeling that we have a better chance than ever of getting a fair test," which he said had been sought by 10 years. This was not evident, Ivy said, until his conference Wednesday with Basilillett Jones, special assistant to Secretary of Welfare Anthony J. Celebrezze.

Mrs. Anna Means of Greenstown has been one of the chief supporters of Krebiozen in this area. She has made at least two trips to Washington to urge that the drug be kept on the market.

She headed a delegation on May 14 at the invitation of Sen. Paul Douglas of Illinois and returned again this past week to speak on behalf of the drug.

Of the May 14 delegation, she wrote: "All who attended were terminal cases who had been given orthodox treatment for cancer and were given only a few weeks or months to live."

She charged that government agencies could not find the necessary money to test Krebiozen, while spending funds on other less vital projects.

The American Medical Assn. has said the drug is worthless, an opinion not shared by all its members. Dr. Allen Rutherford of Lebanon, for example, has said that if the drug is banned the result will be a "death sentence for many."

The drug is a natural tissue hormone which is supposed to control cancer. It was developed by Dr. Steven Durovic.

Pickets Demand Kennedy Action In Fight To End 'Racial Nightmare'

Race Riot Leaves One Dead

LEXINGTON, N.C. (AP)—One hundred state troopers clamped a tight lid on this city of 18,000 Friday night in the wake of a race riot that left a white man shot to death and a newspaper photographer wounded.

Two companies of troopers rolled into the city, joining the 25-man local force which Thursday night battled an angry mob of 2,000 whites and a hundred or so Negroes for more than four hours.

City officials earlier had issued statements discouraging public gatherings. A number of scheduled public events were canceled.

The riot, accompanied by gunfire, struck the city 24 hours after a group of 15 Negroes, some of them children, sought service at segregated cafes, a theater and a bowling alley in the downtown area.

Before police succeeded in restoring order, the two sides had thrown hundreds of bottles—some filled with gasoline—rocks and sticks. Windows were shattered and several persons cut by flying glass.

Police signed warrants against 15 white persons changing them with participating in a riot. Ten of these were jailed and bonds set at $1,000.

Mayor C. V. Sink met with the City Council and law enforcement officers to study the situation while conditions appeared about normal in the downtown business section. Lexington is about 30 miles southwest of Greensboro, scene of a series of anti-segregation demonstrations in recent weeks.

After the meeting, Sink addressed a newspaper and radio appeal to the public, asking residents to stay at home and off the streets.

A concert by Negro entertainer Fats Domino was canceled and Little League baseball activity was called off.

Assistant Police Chief Lester Sheets said about 500 to 800 white persons out of a mob of up to 2,000 that had been in the downtown area gathered on a side street a few blocks from the heart of the city, opposing about 50 Negroes on the other side of the street.

Yetter Endorsed By Monroe Democratic Committee

STROUDSBURG — State Rep. Van D. Yetter of Marshall Creek last night was unanimously endorsed by the Monroe County Democratic Committee as the party's nominee to succeed U.S. Rep. Francis E. Walter, who died last week.

Yetter was nominated by Mayor Arthur Lehr of Delaware Water Gap at a special meeting of the committee held in the YMCA. The only other nominee was State Sen. Fred Rooney of Northampton County.

After the vote, which was 26 to 2 in favor of Yetter, the committee agreed to make the tally unanimous and to present Yetter as a favorite son candidate to the other three candidates in the 15th Congressional District.

In nominating Yetter, Lehr said:

"It is with a sense of great regret that I face the necessity of naming someone to take the place of Francis E. Walter, who served us so well for so many years.

"We in Monroe County are fortunate, however, in having Mr. Yetter available for the office. He has represented us well in Harrisburg for several terms, winning a larger vote each time he ran for the legislature.

"His reputation for activity in civic affairs, leadership in his church, prominence in business and faithful representation of the interests of the people of this area has spread well beyond the boundaries of Monroe County, into the other counties of the district.

"He especially has earned the reputation of sponsoring and pushing legislation of benefit to our county and I know that as our representative in Congress he would continue to sponsor such legislation."

Yetter Accepted

Accepting the endorsement, Yetter promised a full-blown, hard-hitting campaign which he said would take him into every corner of each of the four counties.

"We may expect," he said, "that the Republican governor will call a special election during the summer on the theory that it would help the Republican party even though the seat could be filled at the November election with considerable savings of public funds. But if I should be the Democratic candidate, I will be ready and willing to work hard for the election and I hope I will have your support."

Yetter estimated that a special election would cost between $50,000 and $70,000. Gov. William W. Scranton must set a date for the election by Monday.

W. C. G. Peterson, county chairman, told the members their action was a directive for him to back Yetter vigorously at the meeting Monday night in Allentown with State Democratic Chairman Otis B. Morse and the four county chairmen of the congressional district.

He said Pike County Democratic leaders are already committed to support Yetter and that support from Carbon County is being sought.

Yetter was first elected to the State House of Representatives in 1955 and has served since then with a two-year lapse. He has served on the committees on highways, game and conservation, fish and fisheries and agriculture.

President Hops CORE Picket Line

LOS ANGELES (AP)—President Kennedy came to Los Angeles on a political expedition Friday and civil rights pickets promptly set up an around-the-clock demonstration at his hotel.

Kennedy didn't cross the picket line established by CORE, the Congress of Racial Equality, which pressed a demand for presidential "moral leadership now to end this racial nightmare."

The chief executive landed on the hotel roof in a helicopter. There were no pickets there.

Kennedy had a dinner engagement with fellow Democrats—an affair arranged by the movie industry to raise cash for the party.

This brought him to the end, if not the climax, of a day that began at sea, shifted to the desert, then moved to this metropolis.

And it peaked at the start of an announcement from a giant aircraft carrier that Kennedy will splice a conference with Prime Minister Harold Macmillan of Britain into a late-June trip to Europe.

The President flew here from China Lake, Calif., Naval Ordnance Test Center in the Mojave Desert, where he watched a spectacular demonstration of some of the Navy's most advanced weapons. Many of them still are secret as to details of operation and performance.

The CORE pickets said they would stay at the hotel as long as Kennedy does—which will be until Saturday morning.

Former Vice President Richard M. Nixon, faced at a civic farewell luncheon because he has moved to New York, said: "The President of the United States should not be picketed—and I defend the right of anyone to picket a public official. . . but when the President of the United States comes to our state, he is entitled to respect. He should not be embarrassed."

Evidently the pickets, white and Negro, didn't listen to this advice. They were carrying placards with such legends as "One 2nd Class Citizen Makes A 2nd Class Nation," "Freedom Now," and "Mr. Kennedy—Lead The Fight For Civil Rights."

Kennedy was breakfasting aboard the 80,000-ton Kitty Hawk, where he spent the night after watching fleet and aerial maneuvers, when White House press secretary Pierre Salinger confirmed that a conference with Macmillan is being worked into the chief executive's trip to Europe at the end of the month. The President also will visit Germany, Ireland and Italy.

The President also will visit Germany, Ireland and Italy.

His jet airliner took him on to China Lake for the last of a series of military power demonstrations that have featured his Western tour.

The President summed up his reaction to what the military has been showing him in the West in a talk to a big crowd at the Point Mugu airport. Looking ahead to his return to the national capital Monday, he said:

"I go back to Washington with a feeling of renewed pride in being an American, a renewed confidence in being a citizen of the greatest republic on the face of the earth."

He said the United States doesn't consist of ambassadors, Cabinet members and the President, however important they may be.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The new U.S. ambassador to Bonn is going to be stripped of the private train which his predecessors have used to roam about Germany since World War II.

This much was settled in a hassle between Chairman John J. Rooney, D-N.Y., and State Department representatives, it was disclosed in testimony made public Friday by a House Appropriations subcommittee.

Rooney took a dim view of the department's plea for $14,070,000 for travel money in the fiscal year starting July 1—a $2,384,000 increase over this year.

He brought out such items as:

1. The State Department had considered building a heliport atop its Washington headquarters to speed the secretary's departure in case of emergency, but dropped the idea.
2. At least 18 State Department desk officers in Washington have never been to the countries whose affairs they are dealing with.

Rooney told William R. Tyler, assistant secretary for European affairs:

"The three-car, comfortably outfitted German train carries a crew of eight and costs $119,000 a year."

"Half of the train's trips are to the skiing areas in Garmisch and Berchtesgaden. Other trips have been for sightseeing and entertainment."

"Only eight of the train's 44 trips last year were to Berlin, although the purpose of the train was to keep the diplomatic route open from Bonn to Berlin."

Profumo Cancels Visit To Queen

LONDON (AP)—John Profumo, center of a party girl scandal, spared Queen Elizabeth II embarrassment by begging off Friday from the traditional audience formally resigning as war minister.

His secret illicit affair with a pretty redhead, Christine Keeler, 22, described in Parliament as a "cill girl," has provoked a media scandal that has shaken the Conservative government.

Britain's opposition Labor party will launch its assault on Prime Minister Harold Macmillan and his government as soon as Parliament returns from a recess June 17, political sources said.

The Laborites plan a two-pronged attack—either that British security failed to warn Macmillan of his war minister's secret love life, or that Macmillan, once warned, failed to boot the 48-year-old Profumo from office.

Some Conservatives demanded that Macmillan get off the golf links and back to Whitehall. He has spent the past three days on vacation and aides say he has no intention of returning to London before Monday.

Lord Poles, joint chairman of the Conservative party, hinted—so other Tories have done—that more shocks may be coming.

Speaking in Exeter, he said: "I think the episode of Mr. Profumo is extremely serious. It has extremely serious implications. There are aspects of it now under review which would make it quite improper for me to comment."

Profumo resigned Wednesday after admitting he lied to the House of Commons to cover his illicit affair with Miss Keeler.

The queen, in line with protocol, commanded Profumo to arrive at Buckingham Palace on Tuesday morning to yield his seat of office. The command brought immediate protests from both main parties.

"Although he realizes that it is Her Majesty's normal custom to receive a minister after he has resigned, Mr. Profumo has in all the circumstances begged leave to be excused an audience. He has been told that his request has been granted."

The redhead who brought Profumo to political ruin watched in the Old Bailey Court as Jameson Negro, Aloysius Gordon, 31, was jailed for three years for loitering.

Gordon testified Miss Keeler had been a cill girl since she was 17 and had been his mistress.

In jail he will join another discarded Negro lover, John Edgarcombe, 34. He is serving seven years for trying to shoot his way into the West End apartment where Miss Keeler received Profumo and another man on her visiting list, Eugene Ivanov, former Soviet naval attaché.

State Court Backs Radar Speed Traps

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The state Supreme Court, in a 6-1 decision, Friday upheld police use of radar to detect speeders.

The court ruled on an appeal by W. L. Bartley, a truck driver, who was convicted in Allegheny County Court of speeding on the Turnpike last Sept. 17.

The majority opinion was written by Justice Herbert B. Cohen. A concurring one was filed by Justice Samuel J. Roberts. Justice Michael A. Musmanno dissented.

Cohen brushed aside the defendant's two main contentions. These were that the instantaneous clocking of a vehicle's rate of speed by radar was too limited a check; and that state troopers could not identify beyond a reasonable doubt Bartley's truck as the one registering 60 miles an hour on their radar, since it was fourth in a line of five, all of which were about the same distance apart.

Bartley's appeal said that a vehicle's rate of speed should be checked by radar for a quarter of a mile.

Cohen said this would be impossible and that the legislature in amending the motor vehicle code to permit police use of radar to catch speeders did not intend an impossible result. He defined radar as another and separate method of determining speed.

As to the question of identification Cohen said:

"The trial judge had determined the credibility of the witnesses and hence his findings are as binding upon us as a verdict of a jury if supported by competent evidence."

Mansfield State College President Criticized

HARRISBURG (AP)—There are "signs of a serious degree of unrest on the campus" at Mansfield State College, a special investigating committee's report said Friday.

The report was released by Lt. Gov. Raymond P. Shafer's office.

The investigating team — three officials of the state education department—visited the state-owned institution in April after Shafer, Gov. Scranton and legislators from northern Pennsylvania received letters alleging "an undemocratic and repressive administration" under President Lewis E. Rathgeber, Jr.

There were allegations that Rathgeber's mother had struck a college official across the face with a rolled newspaper after the official decided to resign.

The three-man committee reported:

—Witnesses supported the report of the attack by Mrs. Rathgeber on the official, Miss Florence Ludy, acting assistant dean of women, on March 15.

—200 women students staged a demonstration for Miss Ludy and booed Thomas Godward, dean of students.

—Rathgeber, then absent, locked the girls in a room the following Monday and lectured them in a manner he admitted to the committee was "harsh," calling the girls "stupid, immature, irresponsible and ignorant."

—A sense of fear and repression seemed to pervade the campus.

Campus Unrest

—The events "were simply outward signs of a serious degree of unrest on the campus."

—There was a serious lack of confidence in the president in many quarters and an equally serious lack of confidence in the dean of students and the dean of women.

—There is a serious lack of administrative responsibility and communication between segments of the college.

—Rathgeber was absent excessively from the campus and "the lines of administrative responsibility were not clearly apparent to those who were charged with day-to-day administration during the president's absences."

—His restrictions on Phi Sigma Epsilon regarding purchase of a fraternity house "place the fraternity in an untenable position."

—The practice of a 5 per cent markup on books is questionable.

—The president does not have the respect and confidence of the people in the community.

—Student protests were not politically inspired.

The committee turned the matter over to the board urging "that corrective action should be taken quickly so that the college may get back to work in an atmosphere conducive to study."

By Alfred J. Buecher

Scripture—Psalms 11: 79; 82; 106; Amos 5: 24

When David's life was in danger, his advisers urged him to flee like a bird to the mountains from his wicked adversaries. David refused, placing his faith in the righteousness of God's judgments.—Psalm 11.

Solomon prayed that he and his son might exercise righteous judgments over their people, helping them deliver the oppressed, defend the poor, crush the oppressors and make peace enduring.—Psalm 72.

God exercises judgment over the human judges of the people, who are often most unrighteous in their judgments. Often they favor the rich and powerful over the poor and inconspicuous.—Psalm 82.

When certain Israelites resented the authority of God's appointed leader, Moses, He exercised judgment by opening the earth to swallow them.—Psalm 106:14-18; Numbers 16:27-33. GOLDEN TEXT: Psalm 11:7.

Pope John XXIII A Brief, Witty Speaker

ROME—Pope John XXIII, who died Monday as the sun set over the Vatican, had a talent for frank and witty statements and for brief comments which spoke volumes.

In his last words, addressed to the assembled Cardinals and prelates around his sickbed, the Pope said:

"Ut unum sint." They are Latin words meaning "That they may be one."

The words were originally spoken by Jesus after the Last Supper.

For Pope John, they expressed his dream of Christian unity and the unity of all men under a common God.

Full Of Fun

Pope John was not without a certain sense of fun. When alumni of the University of Notre Dame presented a $12,000 automobile to him, he said:

"I bless this car and also all of your cars. I assume you all have cars. A benediction to all of you, with or without cars."

When as Angelo Cardinal Roncalli, he entered Venice as Patriarch of that city on March 15, 1959, he told his people:

"Do not look upon your Patriarch as a man of politics, as a diplomat. Look for the shepherd of souls, who exercises his office among you in the name of Our Lord."

When, as Pontiff, he began taking walks in the Vatican, he was asked if the entrance to the cupola of St. Peter's should be closed, lest people stare at him.

"Oh, we'll conduct ourselves properly and give rise to no scandal," he replied.

He started learning English while he was Pope. "I do not speak English well, but my heart speaks to you," he told an audience Sept. 3, 1960.

In an audience for President Dwight D. Eisenhower on Dec. 6, 1959, the Pope discussed the name he shared with the President's son: "The name John, which in its Biblical significance means

"gift of God," expresses in fact confidence, joy and serene robustness."

Low Cut Dresses

As Papi Nuncio in Paris he was asked whether he was annoyed when women were presented to him in low-cut dresses.

"I don't look at them, and what's more, neither do the other nuncios," he answered. "For when these women arrive, the men all turn around to see how the Nuncio is taking it."

In an audience in December, 1958, he observed: "The tongue is an organ between nose and chin which sometimes is used disproportionately. Hold it."

On his 81st birthday Nov. 25, 1962, he said:

"Any day is a good day to be born and any day is a good day to die. I always think of that other shore and submit to the will of the Lord whether He decides to keep me here or call me to Him."

In accepting election as Pope Oct. 28, 1959, he said:

"I bow my head and back to the yoke of the Cross."

In a speech the next day he asked:

"Why should the resources of human genius and the riches of nature be turned more often to preparing arms—pernicious instruments of death and destruction—than to increasing the welfare of all classes of citizens and particularly of the poorer classes?"

Among his formal utterances were the following:

"But the principle must always be reaffirmed that the presence of the state in the economic field, no matter how widespread and penetrating, must not be exercised so as to reduce evermore the sphere of freedom of the personal initiative of individual citizens, but rather so as to guarantee in that sphere the greatest possible scope for the effective protection for each and all of the essential personal rights, among which is to be numbered the right that individual persons possess of being always primarily responsible for their own upkeep and that of their own family, which implies that in the economic system the free development of productive activities should be permitted and facilitated." ("Mater et Magistra" encyclical, July 14, 1961).

A New Order

"In the present order of things, Divine Providence is leading us to a new order of human relations, which, by men's efforts and even beyond their very expectations, are directed toward the fulfillment of God's superior and inscrutable designs; and everything, even human differences, leads to the greater good of the church."

Last Words

During his illness Pope John wrote or dictated:

"This bed is an altar. The altar wants a victim. Here I am, ready."

Today's Lesson:

God In Courts Of Justice

By N. SPEER JONES

THE COLLECTION of psalms in today's lesson reflects the importance of righteousness in religion. The word comes, of course, from our simple word "right." To be righteous, therefore, is to do what is right.

In Psalm 11, which is one of David's, we find that the author is in a situation so desperate that friends urge him to flee for his life. He refuses, not only because he has faith in God's upholding of the righteous, but because to flee would not be righteousness on his part, but cowardice.

Psalm 72 is one of the only two in the Psalter which, so far as we can tell, were authored by Solomon. The other is the 127th. His opening prayer is for himself and his heir, that their judgments may be righteous according to God. Justice, in the first clause, probably refers to the specific judgments which the king must make; righteousness, in the second, probably here means the inner spirit of accord with God's way, which makes any specific judgment right.

In verse six, Solomon asks that he and his son be like "rain upon mown grass," which at first glance seems odd because literally this is not a blessing at all. What the author must mean is rain upon a newly mown field from which the old grass has been cleared. This would cause the grass to sprout again, almost overnight, just as a good leader's influence brings out the latent potential in his followers.

The claim to such homage as indicated in verses 8-11 is not based on force but on justice. Unfortunately, Solomon, instead of delivering the oppressed and poverty-stricken, made their burdens even heavier, despite his prayers. The rulers to accomplish this are God and His Son.

In contrast to Psalm 72, Psalm 82 emphasizes the evils of unjust judgments. Here God is judging not the people themselves, but the unjust human judges of the people. This is the reference of the word "gods" in the first verse; in Exodus 21:6, 22:8, 28 we see the same reference used for the word—Israel's judges. Verse 8 speaks of God arising and judging man, yet throughout the New Testament it is usually the Son of God who is appointed to do the earthly judging, as Christ Himself said. The fundamental criterion for any judgment is righteousness.

In Psalm 106 we return to the old theme of God's everlasting righteousness and patience, and Israel's everlasting unrighteousness. The problem here is the one of the necessity of judgment on the part of the righteous, of the unrighteous, especially one's own unrighteous; this is the problem faced by every disciplining parent.

I have before me the clear vision of my soul, of my priesthood, of the (Ecumenical) Council, of the universal church."

"God knows that I opened my small soul to this great inspiration with simplicity. Will He concede me to finish it? Blessed be He. Will He not concede this to me?"

"From Heaven, where I hope—I am even certain—divine mercy will raise me, I shall see the happy conclusion of the Ecumenical Council."

HELL ON EARTH

TO SAY the least, this green earth is not always a pleasant place to be. But despite this, we are not in any hurry to change worlds.

Many people assume that the great trials and tribulations faced in this mortal life are enough for all time and comfort themselves with the thought that there is no actual Hell.

We all have a guilt feeling and our defense mechanisms are always ready to explain to ourselves that there is no harm (sin) in what we do—it must be right because everybody does it!

Each and every one of us are in fear of being judged! The terrible thought of a great judgment day is shut away from our minds because we do not want to think of how we would look before a judge who cannot tolerate any sin and is able to penetrate the depths of all hearts.

A name I know believes in a living God but cannot accept the fact that there is a Hell and that it is a very real place. She has seen so much suffering, has seen the result of man's inhumanity to man, and so much heartbreak that she will shut the idea of eternal punishment out of her thoughts! Now this is a very comforting philosophy and I can't help wishing that this was true, but the Bible has told us that Hell is real!

The Bible is a book that you either believe all the way, or you do not believe it at all!

There is no middle ground to stand on. You cannot take parts of it out of context to suit your own way of thinking. It is the full story of the fall of man and the salvation from the wrath of a just God!

If there were no Hell—then why did Christ die as atonement for the sins of men? For that matter, why Christ at all? Wherever there is a law there is of necessity a punishment for those who will not obey. A code of laws was given to us by Jehovah by way of Moses known as the 10 commandments. Only Christ was able to live a perfect life and keep all the commandments. He said that there is a Hell! Read St. Matthew chapter 23 the whole chapter, or if you are in a hurry, as usual, just read verse 16. As clear as can be—yet some doubt!

It is true that some of us are touched and scarred by tragedy more than others. Good and bad alike suffer in this world of tears. We are not given the reason why such things are allowed to happen, we must keep going on faith and trust. Someday perhaps we will know the reasons, but until then we look through a glass darkly. What we do know is the way God wants us to live. It is in the book, all we need to know, including the truth about a very real place called Hell, not to be found on earth!

MCNEIL ISLAND PRISON. Wash. (AP)—Bob B. served 14 years including time at Alcatraz for burglary, jail break, holdup and forgery.

"I hate 'square John' (thrust people). My one trade is safe-cracking," he said on his arrival at the prison here.

While at McNeil Bob learned another trade, furniture refinishing. Today with his son as partner he runs a flourishing business in the Pacific Northwest.

Bank Robbers
Three bank robbers who served sentences at this island penitentiary in Puget sound have achieved similar success.

The second former robber has a thriving painting business. George, the third, has a supervisory post with a national publishing company.

These men are among scores of former McNeil inmates, many one-time dangerous criminals, who have been changed into responsible law-abiding citizens.

How? The prison's Self Improvement Program—SIG—a highly successful rehabilitation movement backed by the people of the nearby Greater Tacoma area on the mainland, gets much of the credit. Men from every profession and kind of work visit McNeil weekly to give talks, interviews, advice and help.

SIG, some 500 inmates, active in SIG, have served their sentences and been released. Only five, U.S. Bureau of Prison spokesman says, have failed on the outside, broken laws and been returned to prison.

Word of the success of SIG has spread across the nation and abroad. Fifteen federal and state penal institutions have started similar groups. More are interested. A Japanese prison wrote for information.

SIG Founder

When the founder of SIG, Father Francis Prange, S.J., first suggested the program, inmates, prison officials and people on the outside doubted it would work.

Father Prange, now 69, who has spent 18 years as McNeil's Catholic chaplain, had a different notion.

State News Roundup

Employment Best In Years

HARRISBURG (AP) — The Bureau of Employment Security has reported the best improvement in the state's unemployment picture in several years.

Continued claims last week dropped to the October 1967 level with 144,773 persons applying for benefits. New claims dropped to 20,488, the lowest since May 1969.

The bureau credited the improvement to recalls in the construction, apparel and primary metals industries.

Mother Of 7 To Get Degree

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (AP) — Mrs. Madeleine Call Cain's husband and seven children will watch her wrap up a 25-year quest for a college education in a Pennsylvania State University diploma Sunday.

That's the day she receives her bachelor of arts degree in medieval history.

Mrs. Cain began her college education at St. Elizabeth's College, Convent Station, N. J. She left college in 1938 to marry William J. Cain Jr., a lieutenant in the U.S. Air Force.

Her husband's career—she is now a jet pilot and a colonel in the Air Force—prevented her from returning to college until 1959, when her husband was stationed in Louisiana. There she enrolled in McNeese State College, a branch of Louisiana State University.

When her husband was assigned to Penn State in 1966 she enrolled and hasn't missed a term since.

Mrs. Cain now looks forward to continuing her college work in graduate school, still majoring in medieval history.

Lutherans Adopt $1,093,397 Budget

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (AP) — Central Pennsylvania Lutherans have adopted a $1,093,397 budget for 1981.

The figure represents an increase of almost $300,000 over the budget for 1980. Of the total amount, $2,275,861 was earmarked for the parent Lutheran Church in America.

The synod allocated $1,214,613 for operating funds. It assigned $300,000 in capital funds for Gettysburg College, the Susquehanna University Chapel, camps, and Gettysburg Seminary, and $392,923 for emergency and advance.

The total of funds to be utilized in the entire area of higher education is $566,500, including operating fund grants to the institutions, church occupations, recruitment, and campus ministries, as well as capital fund allocations.

The social ministry program of the synod will be supported in the amount of $311,612.

A final attendance report to the convention listed 831 delegates, about equally divided between pastors and laymen. There are 672 congregations in the synod.

New Laboratory For Philadelphia

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Philadelphia Industrial Development Corp. has disclosed plans to build a four-story, $4.5 million laboratory annex to the Franklin Institute.

The new structure will be built on the Benjamin Franklin Parkway on the west side of 20th St. It will accommodate more than 400 scientists and technicians engaged in the institute's multi-million dollar research and development activities.

The annex is needed for centralizing and expanding the institute's research facilities said Dr. W. Laurence Le Page, president of the Franklin Institute. He said it would replace some 11,000 square feet currently in use, scattered in several leased buildings and in cramped quarters in the main institute building.

E-L Service Ending Opposed

SCRANTON, Pa. (AP) — Three witnesses opposed an application by the Erie-Lackawanna Railroad to discontinue passenger service to Scranton at an Interstate Commerce Commission hearing yesterday.

They were the only three people to testify and all were cross-examined.

Willis W. Jones, executive vice president of the Scranton Chamber of Commerce, testified that passenger service being provided by the Erie-Lackawanna is not in the interest of commercial or industrial development of the area.

Philip F. Brady, president of the Scranton Central Labor Union, and Robert Gormley, assistant city solicitor, described the railroad's equipment as dirty, the service as poor and slow and the passenger coaches as outmoded.

Jones noted the New York World's Fair is due to open next May 1. He said it would attract thousands of people.

"We hope they will ride the train. We hope they will stop in Scranton," he said.

New Hearings For Bufalino

WASHINGTON (AP) — Russell Bufalino, listed by the Justice Department as present at the 1967 "crime convention" in Apalachin, N. Y., has been given a chance to prove his charges that the Justice Department pressured immigration officials into ordering him deported to Italy.

The U.S. Court of Appeals sent his case back to district court for new hearings.

Bufalino of Pittston had appealed a summary judgment in district court. He contended the Immigration Service had prejudged his case because he was on a list of 100 persons that the Justice Department announced in 1968 it was seeking to convict or deport.

He also charged that the Commissioner of Immigration had notified the Senate Immigration Committee that Bufalino was prominent in labor racketeering circles in Eastern Pennsylvania.

Teenagers Without Jobs

The number of people under 20 looking for jobs in May across the nation pushed the national unemployment rate up to 5.9 per cent, and there will be more in June when school is out.

And Labor Secretary W. Willard Wirtz says teenage unemployment "could develop into one of the most explosive social problems in the nation's history."

He called for improved education, elimination of job discrimination, reduction of the school drop-out rate and training of jobless youth.

The crisis is developing now because post war babies born in 1947 are becoming 16 and are eligible for jobs. The Labor Department says there are 1,000,000 more 16-year-olds this year than there were last year, and about 300,000 more looking for jobs.

The Labor Department says there is no decrease in number of jobs, there are just more teenagers looking for them.

But the problem is not one of population statistics alone. The American economic system is changing so that there are fewer and fewer jobs for unskilled labor.

Technological unemployment created by automation, new industries taking over as older products fall out of use, and the lack of good training and apprentice programs in many fields is adding to the teenage crisis.

More and better vocation training is needed for students who will only waste their time in college. More public school funds should be spent on vocational training.

At the same time, industries which have not already discovered that they must train their employees from scratch and have not set up training programs must do so or face a dwindling labor pool from which to hire.

As teenagers grow in number and as industry requires more and more specialized training, the problem of teenage unemployment is going to grow worse — a lot worse.

Poverty and Greatness

The last will of Pope John XXIII is full of that same frank simplicity and brevity which characterized all his statements. (See story, Page 2.)

He speaks of his poverty, humility and readiness for death — a readiness he expressed often during his four-day death agony.

"The feeling of my smallness and my nothingness always kept me good company. . . " the Pope said.

In another section of his will, he said, "Born poor, but of honored and humble people, I am particularly proud to die poor after having distributed . . . all that came into my hands in a very limited measure during the years of my priesthood and episcopate. My poverty was often hidden behind veils of apparent richness. . . "

But, as he is taken to his final resting place, this Pope, who speaks of his smallness and nothingness, is hailed across borders of religion and politics as one of the greatest, most popular and effective of all time.

Security Scandal

The case of the British War Minister who lied to Parliament about his relations with a 22-year-old model would be little more than a British political scandal if it were not for the fact that a Soviet Naval attaché is also involved.

The possibility that Profumo's indiscretion may have led to loss of military secrets expands the political scandal to serious proportions.

The United States has been uneasy about British security controls for some time. If the investigation of the Profumo case explodes into another security leak incident, the United States will be faced again with the question of whether and how far we can entrust military and nuclear secrets to our closest ally.

That question was raised by the known friendship of Christine Keeler with both Profumo and a Soviet naval attaché who has since been recalled to Moscow. It will have to be answered by Macmillan's government.

John Chamberlain

Letting An Enemy Off

By some dogged fatality, the United States has let every one of its mortal enemies off the hook since the "peace without victory" conclusion of the Korean War.

Last autumn we had Khrushchev on the run in Cuba, but since then we have permitted his forces to filter back. Like the golfer with no follow-through, we seem unable ever to capitalize on a stroke that starts out with real power.

Now comes the news that there is a movement afoot to let the Red Chinese recoup their strength by trade with the U.S. after the abrupt failure of Mao Tse-tung's Great Leap Forward, which has deprived the Peking government of everything but the ability to yell at Khrushchev.

An organization called the Committee for a Review of Our China Policy has been set up on the Pacific Coast, with headquarters in Eugene, Oregon. Its co-chairmen are Charles O. Porter, a former Congressman, and Ernest T. Nash, former Deputy Secretary of the International Government in Shanghai.

Porter and Nash have requested Washington for permission to sponsor a trade delegation to the Chinese trade fair in Canton next October, with a possible view to legalizing trade with Mao Tse-tung's Communist regime.

According to publicity from the Porter-Nash group, they have received a tentatively favorable response from Presidential Assistant McGeorge Bundy. He is represented as saying that U.S.

policy on the desirability of permitting a trade delegation to go to Canton, is now under review by the State Department.

"As you point out," Bundy is quoted as writing to Porter, "there are a great many factors to be considered in dealing with the problems of contacts with the Peking regime, not the least of which has been their steadfast refusal to permit any visitors to the Mainland who are not of their own choosing."

Such a statement commits Bundy to nothing, but the very suggestion that the Department of State might reconsider our ban on trading with Mao Tse-tung has an ominous connotation. Senator Wayne Morse has been pushing for a re-examination of our trade policies; he reports an increasing interest on the West Coast in selling to China, and hopes for some response in Washington to this interest.

If there were any real likelihood that the peace of the world could be made certain by letting U.S. wheat, steel and machinery go to rebuild Red China's wasted muscles, then this column would be for it. But the whole character of Mao Tse-tung's regime makes such an assumption completely untenable.

Back in the days when they were getting help from Soviet Russia the Red Chinese did not scruple to attack the United States forces in Korea.

They desisted from carrying through with their threats to seize the island of Quemoy as a stepping stone to Formosa only because the U.S. refused to panic and because the Russians failed to supply enough air power to put Chiang Kai-shek's Saboteurs out of business.

Is there any reason to believe that Mao's implacable government would be grateful for a peaceful gesture from Washington, or for the goods that might flow into Chinese ports as a result of a relaxation of the trade ban?

A reviving Red China would certainly turn its attention to the "liberation" of Formosa once more. And, since the U.S. is committed both by its interests and its honor to protect Formosa as a shining example of good "agrarian reform" in the Far East, we would have to help counter any bellicose threats to the island from the Chinese mainland.

It would be like punching ourselves on the jaw to build Red China up only to have to knock it down again by sending the Seventh Fleet back into the waters between Formosa and the Red Chinese coast.

Quite aside from questions of national security, there is the problem of what we might receive from the Red Chinese in exchange for wheat, steel and machinery. Red China's big export of the moment is dope.

The Red Chinese, according to Valentin Chi, are now getting an estimated gross of a billion U.S. dollars a year from the illegal trade in opium and opium derivatives. Much of the dope winds up in American cities after transshipment through Cuba.

So we should help Mao Tse-tung's burns debauch our youth by letting wheat, steel and machinery from the U.S. balance the opium trade? Can we be that mad?

Chemical Industry Defends Use Of Poison Pesticides

By Jeff Cox
Daily Record Reporter

Rachel Carson's loyal opposition has rolled out its big guns to answer "Silent Spring" and its charges of pesticide dangers.

Before listening to the opposition, it must be remembered that Rachel Carson did not call for outlawing pesticides. She only asked for tighter controls and experiments on pesticide poisons to determine detrimental effects to human beings and wildlife.

The President's Science Advisory Committee, when recommending that widespread aerial spraying of pesticides be stopped, only asked that the effects on man and nature be studied further.

The voices of the anti-pesticide forces say that no one knows the true effect of these indiscriminate sprayings.

Yet, chemical controls are needed. To try to farm without them would be to cut off the farmer's right hand.

Dr. Daniel G. Aldrich, Jr., Dean of Agriculture at the University of California, addressed the United Fresh Fruit and Vegetable Assn. at its annual convention in Los Angeles on Feb. 12.

He spoke mainly on chemicals as aids to agriculture and the coming population boom.

"We can say that the battle for food 40 years from now is going to enlist all the fertilizers and weed killers we can create to make that land grow its maximum," he said.

"We want our foods free from insects, free from skin markings or dirt, free from any suggestion that insects have been around. And we want our foods safe."

Plant Protection "Chemistry has given us plant protection," he continued. "soil fumigation to kill fungi, and sprays to control the insects and mites that can make fruits and vegetables unsaleable and can totally destroy a crop."

The doctor then spoke about Rachel Carson, admitting that a some temperate remarks on the balance of nature were needed.

He remarked that chemicals are expensive, and that farmers are always happy to use biological control methods when possible. He added that researchers at the University of California are working on more extensive biological control methods.

"By a recent estimate, in spite of today's pest control know-how," he said, "88 million acres of land are destroyed by pests each year. Insects alone multiply the work of a million men, 10 per cent of the country's agricultural labor force."

"We might note that during the last 19 years, which have been years of expanding use of chemicals, life expectancy in the U.S. has increased seven years."

Speaking on the balance of nature, the professor said, "Man has developed through his assault on the balance of nature. It is the distinction of the human animal that he can modify his environment."

"The very measure of man's progress has been his ability to unbalance nature to man's advantage."

He then comes out with a statement that was in direct contradiction to one of Rachel Carson's tenets. He said:

"By far the greatest part of this continent has been rarely or never touched by man-made chemicals. In a typical year more than 50 per cent of the entire U.S. land and water area receives no pesticides at all. For our wildlands the figure is 97 per cent."

This statement is also in direct conflict with the President's Science Advisory Committee, which reported recently that "one of every 12 acres of land in the 48 contiguous states has been sprayed with pesticides in the past year."

Carson had said that almost every living thing in America has traces of insecticides.

"Today we recognize that our insecticides, herbicides, and fertilizers are chemicals. We should recognize that all of our foods are chemicals, too, and that they have not become inherently hazardous because we know their chemical composition."

Dr. Aldrich continued:

"We can," the doctor concluded, "if we understand the chemistry of all things around us, have a more populous world and a still safer and better nourished one than we have today."

Chemical Industry The Velocet Chemical Company also has something to say about pesticides.

K. T. Karabatos, director of government relations for the company, wrote a letter and enclosed a pamphlet on "The Necessity, Value and Safety of Pesticides," to Rep. Francis E. Walter before his death.

In the letter, Karabatos said, "Much has been said about the safety of pesticides; and, unfortunately, a great deal of borders on inaccuracies, presumptions, and scientific fallacies. This pamphlet was designed to clarify some of these points."

In a summary, the pamphlet states in part:

"We cannot but pesticides, as well as all other materials, are subject to misuse. Greater care might be used in keeping pesticides away from small children."

"We violently disagree that 'natural' insecticides are safer than synthetics."

Pesticides Healthy "Certainly the science-fiction writers (a reference to articles against pesticides quoting scientific fact) do not agree with our opinions and the opinions of the American Medical Assn., the Public Health Service, and the World Health Organization as to the necessity, value and safety of pesticides for health."

"The record shows pesticides cause a minimum of harm to desirable forms of wildlife, which minimum is temporarily necessary to the preservation of our best welfare."

"We are certain that many, if not all, of the critics of pesticides are well-intentioned, even though some appear to be blinded to reality by their fears. We would appreciate it if critics of pesticides would equally credit industry members with some measure of morality."

May Have Hazards "We can agree with our critics that scientific knowledge never comes to an end and there is a remote possibility that pesticides in the future may be found to have hazards, which our best testing methods today do not disclose. We do not agree that the use of pesticides should be brought to zero. We are certain they do not realize the suffering and want their suggestions, if implemented, would cause."

This last statement also disagrees with Carson. In her book "Silent Spring" she quotes experiments made with pesticides that definitely did cause harmful effects in animals and sickness in man.

And in the president's science committee report, the group said "Many kinds of insect control programs have produced substantial mortalities among birds and other wildlife. Some fatalities have been the result of carelessness, others have followed programs carried out exactly as planned."

They also said that "In British Columbia, mortality of coho salmon approached 100 per cent in at least four major streams after the surrounding forests were sprayed with one pound of DDT per acre."

The arguments between the pesticides industry and its critics rage on and will not end soon.

After a bitter contest, a gentleman was elected president of a country club by the narrowest of margins. In his acceptance speech he said, "I hope that those who voted for me—and only those who voted for me—will join me at the bar and have a snifter with me to wish me luck." In other words, "Drink to me only with thine eyes!"

Try and Stop Me --by Bennet Cerf

One of the most powerful, and certainly the most eccentric, of the old newspaper tycoons was James Gordon Bennett, owner of the New York Herald.

In a fascinating biography of Bennett, Richard O'Connor tells how this amazing press lord scored a four-day-beat on all the rest of the country by printing the complete story—denied as long as possible by the War Department—of Custer's disastrous defeat at Little Big Horn.

Bennet also was the man who sent one of his lesser correspondents, Henry Morton Stanley, to search Africa for Dr. Livingstone.

It was Bennett, furthermore, who introduced polo to the U.S., founded the still-successful Paris Herald, and built the Newport Casino.

A young new luminary in the pop-music set, still not quite dry behind the ears, regaled a party in Greenwich, Connecticut, with a number of jokes that were born at a men's smoker, and should have been kept there. The fact that nobody laughed didn't deter the brash young upstart for a moment.

Finally he ran down of his own momentum and asked the maid for a glass of water. The hostess added grimly, "And while you're at it, Agnes, bring a cake of soap and a toothbrush with it."

After a bitter contest, a gentleman was elected president of a country club by the narrowest of margins. In his acceptance speech he said, "I hope that those who voted for me—and only those who voted for me—will join me at the bar and have a snifter with me to wish me luck." ## Sports Car Races Boost Business; Krebiozen; Neighborhood Spies; Taxes Sports Car Races Defended As Attraction

Editor, The Daily Record:

Somewhere it is characteristic of this area that every time there is a major event calculated to bring business here, there is someone who speaks out against it. Two weeks ago the Pocono Mountain Sports Car Association, with the cooperation of other local service organizations, sponsored a sports car hillclimb on Big Pocono Mountain.

Sure enough, Mr. Glen Fisher, whom I have had the doubtful pleasure of meeting before in these columns, asks that this event, and others like them be condemned.

I could ignore Mr. Fisher's opinion because I feel sure that with time, and progress, this area can only have more and more activities that will bring the public to our mountains. The incentive to write this letter comes not from disagreement with the opinion of this one writer, but rather from the knowledge that such conservatism is widespread.

There are many people who do not wish this area to grow. They would like the mountains to be so sparsely populated that they could run around in joint clothes hunting game with bow and arrow. Well those days are gone! Monroe County is home base of the second largest industry in the state . . . the resort industry.

Monroe County's 10,000 hotel rooms bring about 500,000 people yearly here to enjoy for a short time what we enjoy all year around — the fresh air, the beautiful scenery, the forests and waters of our homeland.

But while we are happy with these God given gifts, our visitors are here for one reason only — to enjoy their vacations. So that they will continue their business to us, we must provide them with entertainment, something to do.

This is the reason a half a million dollars will be spent on Big Pocono Mountain. This money will help to turn our area into a big resort. This is the reason the Laurel Blossom Festival is held yearly — to publicize the Poconos. This is the reason sports car hillclimbs are held. All to bring business into the area. This is the reason golf matches are televised — to bring money into the area. This is money that pours into school districts and township funds as taxes. To get this business, in order that taxes may be collected, vast sums of money are spent in publicity efforts.

Visitors don't just come here. We have to work to get them. When they finally arrive their visits pay off — for all of us. To keep on getting these folks we must not be so conservative as to stop giving them anything for their money. We have too much competition from other resort areas. For this reason we must provide all recreational activities possible.

This is why a park area such as Big Pocono will be developed into a big area. Perhaps this facility will help prevent the great business drop-off we have always had in the fall and winter. This ski run should help restaurants, the gas stations, the clothing stores, the drug stores. The profits of the businesses will go to help us all. Get the point Mr. Fisher, my arch conservative correspondent?

Mr. Fisher remarks about the "commercial interests." These so called "commercial interests" are we the people. In a prosperous community everyone is prosperous, not just a few, and this is what we are working towards. Look, if I can stay open all year long, I can keep my staff on all year, not just for six months. Will this year round employment be good for my employees? If they have more money to spend year round will this be good for the town? If our employees have paying work all year long they will have no need for unemployment monies. Will this cut in unemployment costs be good for the state — and the individual taxpayer?

If you Mr. Fisher, can answer yes to these three questions then you must not be against the development of this area. Mr. Fisher asks for public support on these issues. I agree. The public should support what is good for them. It can't be good for the public to be against the development of this area because their economic prosperity is too tied up in that same development.

Automobile racing is an exciting sport. This is why people watch it. Spectators get a vicarious thrill, they identify with the drivers, they share their excitement — racing is popular for the same reasons that any spectator sport is popular, ie, simply because the spectator becomes, through an act of his imagination, a part of the game.

As a very occasional racing driver I feel qualified to say that no driver ever feels sadistic, masochistic, or gory. I don't wish to see anyone hurt in a race, or be hurt myself. I water ski too Mr. Fisher, and I don't wish to drown, or see anyone else drown, and I can't help but wonder what you think of sport parachute jumpers? Or perhaps even golfers? Or Tiddly-Winks players?

State parks were meant to provide enjoyment for the people. We in the Poconos take advantage of such facilities to provide another "something" for our visitors. There are many reasons for being extra nice to our guests . . . the first is that they are our guests. Secondly, from charity, we are sharing our bountiful gifts with others, and from a strictly pragmatic point of view . . . they keep the Pocono's green — they bring money.

Krebiozen Deadline Arrives

Editor, The Daily Record:

Again cancer survivors on Krebiozen must go to Washington, D.C. to plead for their lives. Degrading isn't it?

Monday, June 3, Mrs. Ann Mazza of Greentown, Mrs. Laie May of Hamilton and Mr. Edwin Thomas of Seelyville left for Washington, D.C. representing this area for the cancer survivors on Krebiozen.

Patients on Krebiozen, relatives and friends from all over the United States will insist on their constitutional rights. "The right to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness."

We have telegraphed President Kennedy for an appointment on June 4, 1963.

We want to know who will be responsible for the agony and death of the thousands of Krebiozen users. We are not interested in the arguments of the government with the Krebiozen Foundation. Our grave concern is the lives of all these people if the Food and Drug Administration ruling goes into effect Friday, June 7 as they now threaten.

We object to the "acceptable plan," it has been difficult to find a doctor to give us Krebiozen, even as a last resort. How can we possibly find a cancer specialist in chemotherapy?

Laws are made by Congress, we are sure Congress did not intend to sentence to death the cancer patients dependent on Krebiozen for continued life and freedom from pain.

We must have a definite answer.

MRS. ANN MAZZA

Dear Abby: Is there a way to cure a person of talking constantly? When my mother comes to visit us for a week every summer, she doesn't shut her mouth for one minute unless she's asleep. She's always been this way. No matter who is talking she takes over, and changes the subject to something SHE wants to talk about. I am getting so I dread her visits. I'm a nervous wreck when she goes home. It's not because she's lonely as her married children, who has a family, Heaven help them! They should get a medal! If I sound bitter, I am.

TIED OF
MOTHER'S BABBLING

Dear Abby: Your mother is apparently a "compulsive talker." But if others are able to tolerate it, perhaps you should exercise more patience and understanding. We all have to put up with a certain amount of "babbling" from strangers to whom we owe nothing but common courtesy. Don't you think your mother is entitled to at least that much? And perhaps a little more?

Dear Abby: I am 15 and very mature for my age. I have been dating since I was 12. I am going steady with a real doll of one guy who is 15. There is only one thing wrong with him. He doesn't know how to kiss. Should I just act like I don't know how to kiss any better than him, or should I tell him he needs a few kissing lessons?

FRUSTRATED

Dear Wife: By all means. Tell him if he needs exercise during his lunch hour to take a brisk walk.

Try Loving Patience!

Dear Frustrated: Don't tell him he needs kissing lessons unless you're prepared to tell him how you got to be such an expert!

Dear Abby: This might help some of your readers. There was a couple who were married six years, wanted a family and couldn't seem to have any. They both went to doctors and took all the advice their friends offered, but nothing helped. Finally, an old Norwegian woman told them to drink goat's milk. They were amused at the idea, but said, "What can we lose?" So they got a goat and started drinking goat's milk. (Both of them!) Within six months the lady became pregnant. They kept on drinking the goat's milk, and in the next four years they had three more babies. Then they got rid of the goat and haven't had a baby since. This is no joke, Abby. The lady is me.

(Note to readers: Check local laws before acquiring a goat.)

Dear Abby: At the office where my husband works they have dancing during the noon hour. My husband is participating. There are married women, divorcees and single girls working at his office. He made the excuse that he needs the exercise. I don't like the idea. Should I express myself?

It's Wrong To Tattle

Editor, The Daily Record: Would you like to be a Neighborhood Spy?

Well, you can. Mr. Donald Murphy, assistant director Sales Tax Bureau, says you can be a spy and informer to help collect the state sales tax. You won't get paid . . . but you will become a "bug" to your neighborhood.

What it will do to you and your conscience he doesn't say, but your Pennsylvania government will be so pleased if you do.

This is a new brand of education for us. Our Christian principles, instilled in our childhood, say it's wrong to tattle and we should mind our own business, not our neighbors. "Love Thy Neighbors" is the commandment which we should obey.

Mr. Donald Murphy wants us to change these principles to become tattling, spying informers on our neighbors. Americans are surely being subjected to some rare talent with a high IQ rating.

After years of progressive education and juvenile delinquency, now we are to install in our children and people the tactics of a Gestapo and Communism. What next for Americans?

Perhaps it's time the real American people take over and give these "superior politicians" some lessons in Christian principles by keeping them out of office. What do you think, or don't you?

Pocono Taxes Defended

Editor, The Daily Record: I resent very much the recent derogatory letter written by a Mrs. Spiegel of N. Y. on taxes in the Poconos.

We own property in Monroe County — are summer residents and upon my husband's retirement will make it our permanent home. We pay our taxes willingly for the privilege of having a place of our own in this beautiful country-side.

If Mrs. S. is so determined on griping why doesn't she write to her Mayor (mine too) who immediately upon his reelection gave himself and 4 or 5 of his cronies a $1,000 salary increase and who has just increased the sales tax to four per cent.

Let's be fair, Mr. Spiegel. We subscribe to the Record and don't wait for belated copies from friends.

State Police at Lehighton said a car driven by Roy W. Denberger, 4, of E. First St., Milfordville, was traveling east on the highway when it skidded on a sharp curve, crossed the highway and ran up an embankment.

Troopers said a westbound car driven by Floyd Rohlfing, 43, of 1126 Center St., Jim Thorpe, was braked to a stop as Denberger's car crossed its path and was struck in the rear by a tractor-trailer owned by Fidera's Bros., Tamaqua, RD 3, and driven by Frank Ryder, Jr., 22, of Barnesville, RD 1.

Applied Brakes

Investigators said Ryder applied his brakes and turned his westbound tractor-trailer into a bank on the right side of the highway in an effort to avoid the cars. They said when his vehicle hit the bank it skidded, struck Rohlfing's car and drove it into Denberger's vehicle.

The tractor-trailer then crossed the highway, ripped the cable from two guard posts and fell 15 feet down an embankment before it was stopped by trees.

Damage was estimated at $900 each to the tractor-trailer and Rohlfing's car and $109 to Denberger's.

No Injuries In 2 Area Accidents

MOUNT POCONO — Chief of Police Kenneth Miller investigated two accidents yesterday in the borough of Mt. Pocono. No injuries were reported.

At 6:30 p.m. Miller was called to the intersection of Rt. 611 and Summit Rd. when two cars collided. The drivers were Guy Kraft, 43, of 224 S. Third St., Quakertown, and Meade G. Geivel, 41, of Canadensis.

Miller said Kraft was traveling east on Summit Rd. and made a left turn at the intersection. Geivel was traveling north on Rt. 611 and the two cars collided. Damage to the Kraft car was estimated at $250 and to the Geivel vehicle at $150.

Second Accident

The second accident happened on Summit Rd. when two cars collided head-on.

Miller identified the drivers as Donald M. Iphor, 55, of Box 12, Pocono Pines, and Earl E. Drummond of Pocono Pines. Iphor told Miller that he was traveling east on Summit Rd. when he saw the other car coming at him. He stopped but was hit. Miller said Drummond was traveling west on the same highway and attempted to pass another car. He saw the Iphor car and applied his brakes. The car slid on the wet pavement and collided head-on with the Iphor vehicle.

Damage to the Iphor car is estimated at $300 and $200 to the Drummond vehicle by Miller. He will continue the investigation today.

State Probes Fish Barrier Near Gap

DELAWARE WATER GAP — Two members of the Pennsylvania Fish Commission this week investigated complaints that fish are unable to get over the dam in Brodheads Creek near the Coates Board and Carton Co., Inc., plant during spawning season.

Terry D. Rader, regional fishery manager, and Clair Fleege, regional warden supervisor, visited here at the request of Monroe County Rep. Van D. Yetter, Jr.

They interviewed Mayor Arthur Lehr; William Loder, Broad St.; Percy Shoemaker, Cherry Valley St., and Guyton Kempter, Walnut Lane, during the course of their investigation.

Rader told the group he and Fleege photographed fish falling back exhausted after attempts to get over the dam and will talk to fish commission officials to see what can be done to get fish into Brodheads, McMichaels and Paradise Creeks to spawn.

HARRISBURG — During the week of June 3, Reps. Van D. Yetter (D-Monroe) and Russell Eshback (R-Pike) voted yes on seven bills acted on by the House of Representatives. All were passed.

The bills are as follows:

S-119: Eliminate so-called "insurance gravy train" by setting up Secretary of Property and Supplies as insurance broker.

S-306: Amend "Vehicle Code" to change permitted length of vehicles transporting school children.
H-431: Require all bituminous open pit mining operations to be licensed.
H-440: Require Department of Highways to use shortest available practical route for detours.

H-792: Amend County Code to permit appropriations to tourist promotion agencies.
H-1100: Require the reporting by physicians of certain physical abuse of children.

S-306: Provide that parents of minors be given preference in appointment of guardian of minor's estate.

S-80: Require physicians and hospitals to report persons treated for injuries received in violation of the law.

H-100: Authorize counties to make appropriations to county farmers' associations.

S-300: Amend Third Class City Code authorizing annexation of property owned by cities.

H-306: Authorize reassessment of after-built properties in boroughs.

S-372: Create a "State Highway Commission" in the Department of Highways.

S-480: Permit temporary release of prisoners to attend viewings of funerals of certain relatives.

H-1003: Provide for a five per cent increase in the state tax on liquor.

Whiskey Shots Hiked

STROUDSBURG — The 30-cent shot of whiskey seems to have gone the way of the 15-cent bottle of beer in Monroe County taverns.

The five per cent hike from the five per cent increase taxes which went into effect yesterday has caused most tavern owners to increase the cost of a drink five cents.

So five per cent increase amounts to about 25 cents a bottle on regular brands and slightly more on the better quality liquors.

As to the 15-cent bottle of beer, the one per cent increase in the sales tax which went into effect last Saturday pretty well ended that. Most taverns are now charging a minimum of 30 cents for a 12-ounce bottle.

Just Between Us —

—By Bobby Westbrook

The length of a journey doesn't always determine its importance. Glen and Peg Cleveland only sailed out of the New York Harbor and back but it was a cruise they'll remember for a good long time. It was the benefit cruise for the benefit of the American Cancer Society on the S.S. Rotterdam.

Peg insists that the important thing is that they raised $10,000 for the Cancer Society, but I wanted to know who was there and what they were. The new Mrs. Rockefeller was the biggest news on the ship, and she was wearing a shrimp-colored dress.

Peg said that if Mrs. Rockefeller were running for President she would vote for her, and that she was utterly charming. The Duke and Duchess of Windsor were there and the rest of the social register, according to the papers, but I wanted to know what Peg wore.

It was cruise de ments in color and had a head-embroidered top, and that's all she said about that. The boat was a fabulous one and there was a nice full moon for their voyage.

There wasn't a full moon, there wasn't even a dim glimmering of sunshine yesterday morning, but the raindrops seemed to have their own special glow when an even shorter cruise docked at the General Hospital — instead of a ship it was a hospital stretcher with only one passenger, but since it happened to be my father safely back from the operating room, I was in a mood to call out the firehoses and blow the toughest whistles.

In that interminable interval of waiting I was lucky enough to find Rose Kennedy to talk to. Since she is in traction, she couldn't very well get away. In the meantime, I guess Ruth Brown and Florence Berryman got away for California, and the Lafayette Glee Club arrived to acquire the Laurel Fribreses and everybody got to the hall without getting their hair a wet.

Three Graduating Seniors Given AAUW Grants-In-Aid

Three Monroe County girls graduating high school this month have recently been notified that they have been awarded Grants-in-Aid given by the Stroudsburg Branch of the American Association of University Women.

The girls are Margaret Altomose, Pocono Pines, graduating from Pocono Mountain High School; Brenda Harleman, Brooksideville, from Pleasant Valley High School; and Cathy Snover, East Stroudsburg, from the East Stroudsburg Area High School.

The Stroudsburg AAUW gives one or more grants to girls from the four county high schools in regular rotation. The awards of $100 each are given to girls who have been accepted by a four-year college granting a B.A. or B.S. degree.

Margaret Altomose, who is planning to attend East Stroudsburg State College, is a member of the National Honor Society and has attained Honor Roll standing throughout grade and high school. She was the eighth grade American Legion Award and placed in the Monroe County Mathematics Tournament. Her extra-curricular activities included band, Glee Club, Intramurals and Yearbook Staff.

Brenda Harleman plans to attend Bloomsburg State College, majoring in the field of special education on the elementary level. Besides being a member of the National Honor Society she was a Science Fair winner and a winner of the Busch and Lomb Science award. She was also Treasurer of the Student Council, delegate to the United Nations, member of the Yearbook Staff and Newspaper staff, a cheerleader and Arion Award winning band member.

Cathy Snover is planning on Pennsylvania State University and a major in linguistics. She is a member of the National Honor Society and also received an award for excellence in German. She has been a member of the band and also the Glee Club, which she represented in both the District and Regional Chorus.

AAUW's prime concern for education is carried out by assisting local young women entering college and also by contributing to its national Fellowship program for women doing advanced research both in this country and abroad.

The sole fund-raising project for these purposes is the annual Book Fair, an outdoor sale of used books to be held this year on the porch of the Penn-Stroud Hotel from July 19 to 23 from 9 to 5. Interested persons are invited to contribute used books, especially novels, children's books or any other books. For further information telephone Book Fair Chairman, Mrs. Thomas Nabors.

GOP Women At Crusade Constitution Compare Amendments Vs. Convention

Cross-referenced and bolstered with arguments on the pros and cons of changing the Pennsylvania Constitution by amendment or drafting a new Constitution by Constitutional Convention, representatives of county Republican Women's Councils have returned from Crusade Constitution in Harrisburg.

While there is general agreement on the need for constitutional revision in the state, there are wide differences of opinion on how those changes should be made. To clarify the situations for the Pennsylvania Council of Republican Women, Crusade Constitution was conceived and arranged by M. Vashli Burr, chairman for the subcommittee on Constitutional Changes.

More than 300 members attended the meeting in the Penn-Harris Hotel. Mrs. Burr, a lawyer and member of the Pennsylvania Bar Assn. was not among them. She died of a heart attack on Memorial Day. Mrs. William E. Martinale, also a lawyer and director on the State Council board, assumed her role as chairman.

Among the workbooks presented to the delegates was one prepared by Mrs. Burr which includes a cross reference guide for the study of the proposals comparing the original Constitution with the proposed amendments.

Attorney General Walter E. Allen introduced the principal speaker, William A. Schneider, former president of the Pennsylvania Bar Assn. and chairman of the special committee on "Project Constitution." He also is a former Attorney General of Pennsylvania.

"Let us not be too quick to ridicule as 'horse and buggy' the Constitution of the state," he said. "While changes are needed and progress has outmoded and outdated some of the sections, does not alter the fact that the Constitution was set up in line with the Constitution of the United States."

In a Constitutional Convention, he explained, a new constitution is written by two delegates from each legislative district. In similar conventions, New Jersey ended up with only one elective office in state government, that of Governor, and in Connecticut, they eliminated the counties, he warned.

One of the gravest dangers in holding a Constitutional Convention, he said, was that the new Constitution would be voted upon as a whole, and voters would have to accept the good with the bad or reject the whole project. Minimum expenses for a Constitutional Convention is a million dollars, he said.

The alternative to revise and amend the present Constitution, permits each section to be voted upon on its merits and could be handled during the regular working term of the Legislature. Ready at hand is the $30,000 study by the Woodside Commission and the work of the Pennsylvania Bar Assn. in preparing 12 amendments for the 1963 legislature.

The present constitution which contains 18 articles and 22 sections would be reduced to 11 articles and 152 sections he said.

A question and answer period followed his talk. Attending the Crusade Constitution from Monroe County were Mrs. George C. Shotwell, legislative chairman of Top of the Mountain Council; Mrs. Hugo Seliger, legislative chairman of the TLC Council; Mrs. F. Lee Banta, treasurer and Congressional chairman of the TLC Council; and Mrs. Mervin F. Fontanella, president of that council and senior advisor for the Young Women's Republican Council.

Before the meeting, Mrs. Fontanella presented the papers and request for a charter from the Young Women's Council to the state council president, Mrs. Samuel B. Veitch.

Other state leaders present were Mrs. Meade D. Dorewiler Jr., state chairman of the Legislative committee and editor of the weekly Legislative Letter; past president of the council, Mrs. Irvin R. MacElwaine; secretary of the Republican State Committee, Mrs. Raymond T. Russell; vice chairman of the State Committee, Mrs. Ruth Glenn Pennell; and Mrs. Audrey Kelly, a member of the state council and newly-appointed State Insurance Commissioner.

'ROUND AND ABOUT WYCKOFF'S—

The girls in our Gift Wrap Center are being kept busy these days wrapping gifts for June brides and June graduates, and it is nothing to walk into Holt Wyckoff's office and see several parcels addressed to his daughter, Sandra. Sandy is a Stroud Union High School graduate of '63, and I hope everyone gifting her bought the gifts in our store; there is so very much at Wyckoff's to delight the heart of any girl.

This is really a Wyckoff year at Stroud Union with Sandy's picture "next door" to that of Gretchen, daughter of the William Wyckoff's, in the year book. Gretchen is the young woman who spent last year in Holland and has delighted many local organizations with an account of her experiences there.

One of the most useful gifts for any graduate are the bookends, of which we have an unusually fine collection in our center aisle. My eye was caught by one pair, representing pagodas, that fold flat when not in use—easy to store in the college dormitory or city apartment. My son was attracted to a pair of horse heads handsomely sculpted of silver-plated metal.

Bookends, the books to go with them, desk accessories, scrapbooks, photograph albums, stationery, charms for bracelets, stunning cuff links set with precious stones in unusual designs, wearing apparel, bedspreads for the college dormitory and such accessories as throw pillows, ash trays, pictures and lamps are among the hundreds of gift potentials for graduates, to say nothing of intimate things such as toilet accessories . . . that good old standby, the fountain pen and matching pencil . . . wallets and handbags, and candy. The last is not an enduring gift, of course, but it's mighty sweet while you have it—like good fortune!

Father's Day is just around the corner too, which is another reason our Gift Wrap Center will be increasingly busy these next few days. Dad himself might appreciate some of the gifts included in the list above, but when you're in doubt about what to buy him, a good, safe, ever-welcome gift is the Arrow shirt. We have so many beauties at Wyckoff's—and some are as dazzling in their whiteness as sunshine on snow. Dad is such a fine fellow he deserves the very best. Wyckoff's offers just that!

Buy your tickets today for the Wyckoff-Hadassah Fashion Show, Wednesday evening, June 19th at Tamiment. Come early (about 6:30) for dinner if you can—Tamiment food is delicious; or come at 8:30 for the show only, if you prefer. I haven't seen those exciting gowns from Israel as yet, but I can hardly wait. Fashion-wise, they're the most!

Picnicking By Moonlight Appeals To Young People

Why not plan a moonlight picnic?

The universal appeal of outdoor dining need not be limited to an afternoon picnic or barbecue. You can plan an evening picnic with dancing that combines the convenience of picnic foods with the informality of the party.

Set the food area on grass, sand or little tables. Old-fashioned picnic blankets may be stretched over tables to glimmer in the moonlight or placed on the ground. Place mats of oilcloth, board with tape of a contrasting color, with each person's name on it may be used for sitting on the ground. Write the names on mats with an indelible magic marker. These markers may be used too for autographing the large cloth.

Clothes may be put over the individual bridge-type tables and in that case you may like to scrawl the names of all the guests.

Set Like a Stage

Set the party like a stage, whether it is outdoors or on the porch. Half the fun of your moonlight picnic will be the enchantment. Use whatever lights will further enhance the area, and small candles set in bottles help the mood.

Spend bottles gold, silver, white or a color if you like. Glue or tape shells, sequins or artificial flowers to them. Candles may be put into fruit or flower pots, if you prefer.

A moonlight picnic may be served in hollowed-out pumpkins, the fruit contents being used for punch. These are often cheap enough to make the idea worthwhile, especially with the useful contents serving as part of the punch.

Fill an inexpensive little picnic basket for each person. Keep everything refrigerated until time to serve it. Put a basket at each place when it is time to eat the finger foods.

Fried Chicken Good

Fried chicken is tasty and inexpensive to serve. Good hot dogs are likely to cost just as much in the long run, considering how many hungry kids can eat.

You can get extra mileage out of a chicken by getting two extra legs out of the wings. Just cut the wing at the joint, and you have a tiny leg on one side of it.

Menu: Fried chicken, thin cucumber sandwiches on white bread with mayonnaise, cole slaw, potato sticks, corn cakes or cake and fruit.

Boys like cucumber sandwiches and cucumbers are cheap. Cole slaw may be picked in small paper cups. Line the basket with paper napkins, so that leftovers may be thrown into a wastebasket that is handy. Stack the baskets and you are ready for dancing.

Dancing can be on a screened-in porch that has been cleared of furniture or at an area around a pool or a room right off the outdoor party area.

Here's a recipe for Moonlight Punch. It'll serve about 60 in 8-ounce paper cups:

- 2 cups lemon or lime juice
- 4 cups orange juice
- 4 cups pineapple juice
- 4 quarts of ginger ale

Political Names Lead Off Wallenpaupack Cookbook

By Linda Pipher
Daily Record Home Economist

Found another cookbook! This one, "Treasures From Wallenpaupack," was compiled by the W.S. C.S. of the Paupack Methodist Church, Pa. As in other church cookbooks, there are favorite recipes from women living in the Lake Wallenpaupack region, but this book has an added interest for it contains Indian history of the region, notes about the 30 food, and even excerpts from someone's great-grandmother's cookbook giving recipes for the curing of rheumatism!

It's all done on the Indian theme and even the clever, informal side of local resorts and establishments have Indian drawings. Sprinkled along with recipes, too, are poems by local people, such as the one describing how Nancy Kumble found a gold thimble while walking along Killam Creek and the old timers told her that her grandmother had lost such a thimble forty years ago in the same spot.

The last notation in the cookbook reads, "The average American woman spends 9 1/2 years of her lifetime cooking." When I first read it I thought to myself that it didn't seem like so much time, but then when I stopped to think that it meant 9 1/2 years of 24 hours a day — why that's a lot of time we girls spend in our kitchens.

The first recipe is signed "Mrs. John F. Kennedy." Now I don't know if this is coincidence or the real "Jackie," but it's a New England recipe!

Mrs. John F. Kennedy's New England Fish Chowder

- 2 pounds haddock
- 2 ounces salt pork, diced
- 2 onions, sliced
- 4 large potatoes, diced
- 1 cup chopped celery
- 1 bay leaf, crumbled
- 1 quart milk
- 2 tablespoons butter
- 1 teaspoon salt
- freshly ground black pepper

Simmer haddock in 2 cups water for 15 minutes. Drain. Reserve broth. Remove bones from fish. Sauté diced pork until crisp, remove and set aside. Sauté onions in pork fat until golden brown. Add fish, potatoes, celery, bay leaf, salt and pepper. Pour in fish broth plus enough boiling water to make 3 cups of liquid. Simmer for 30 minutes. Add milk and butter and simmer for 5 minutes. Serve chowder sprinkled with pork dice.

The first recipe under vegetables is from Mrs. Richard Nixon and then I really did begin to wonder! Could it be from "Pat"?

Make a white sauce using the butter, flour, milk, and seasoning. Add corn to the mixture. Cool slightly then add the well beaten egg yolks and fold in the stiffly beaten egg whites. Turn into a greased casserole and set in a pan of hot water. Bake at 375 about 40 minutes.

Under desserts a recipe for cheese pie is signed Mrs. David Lawrence! But this is for real, for under her name it notes that she is the wife of our former Governor of Pennsylvania.

Mrs. David Lawrence's Cheese Pie

INGRID HELM, Rotary exchange student from Sweden, after she had been chosen queen of the Junior Senior Prom by the vote of her schoolmates at Pleasant Valley High School.

Swedish Exchange Student Chosen To Reign As Queen Over Pleasant Valley Prom

Switzerland—The cause of international amity got a big boost when the students of Pocono Mountain Joint High School chose an exchange student as queen of their Junior-Senior Prom. She is Ingrid Helm, from Sweden, taking her junior year at Pleasant Valley under the auspices of the Rotary Club program.

The prom was held in the new school gymnasium which had been decorated by the junior class in the "Moonlight and Roses" theme. An elaborate dais was erected for the 11-piece band. The Queen's throne was decorated with hundreds of artificial flowers and the entire gym was disguised as a garden.

A dinner of roast beef at 6 p. m. preceded the dancing which began at 8:30. Ronald Viscio, junior class president, announced that the band would nominate five representative girls to be voted upon to reign as queen over the festivities.

Nominated were Joan Calhoun, tenth grade; Lynn Garrett and Ingrid Helm, 11th grade; Patty Owens and Barbara Carey, 12th grade. The student body voted, with the ballots counted by the chaperones.

The announcement of her selection as Queen brought tears to the eyes of the youngster so far from home who has made herself such a warm place in a land no longer strange. She was presented with a bouquet of long-stemmed roses by the Junior Class.

After her coronation, the band played a special Queen's Dance in which the boys were given a chance to cut in and dance with the Queen. More than one song was needed since the line waiting to dance with Ingrid was very long.

During her year at Pleasant Valley, Ingrid has been a member of the girls' hockey team, the girls' basketball team, the Future Teachers Club and an honor student.

High School Rushing College Applications

Parents who hope to see their son or daughter start out in college a year from September should have the project well under way by this time.

Many parents of students in their junior year of high school will utilize the family's vacation this summer to visit prospective colleges, but this is none too soon, warns Robert J. Keir, president of The Tuition Plan, Inc. Some parents of high school juniors toured colleges during the recent spring vacations, Keir said, in order to get ahead of the expected spurt in college applications from the post-World War II baby crop.

Preparation also should be well under way to meet the steadily increasing cost of college education, Keir said. His firm, which works with more than 600 schools and colleges around the country in financing education on a pay-as-you-learn basis, has drawn up a handy form to simplify a comparison of costs and family resources.

One side has columns for three colleges and spaces for such costs as tuition, room and board, various fees, books and equipment, clothing, transportation and incidentals. The reverse side has spaces for the usually available sources of funds such as savings, securities, insurance and scholarships.

Move Either Up Or Out If You're Stuck In Job

By Roberta Fleming Roesch

Ever think that you're stuck in a job where you're not being pushed enough despite the fact that you've done your best to give your best to that job?

"That's the way it is with me," a woman confided one night after a recent lecture on getting ahead in jobs.

Dead End

"Frankly, I'm at a stalemate," she went on to explain. "My company leaves me completely alone in the same spot year after year and never makes an effort to push me or my work."

"This is beginning to get me, too, since others in the firm seem to be getting the push, a head without working as I do."

"I can't really see where my future lies. What would you suggest?"

Three Suggestions

Basically, we suggest three things — all starily realistic.

First, take a good look at your company. Is it possible hidden reasons keep you from getting the push?

Obviously, few firms who need your work will come right out and tell you you're not included in their future. But in these times, when so many firms are going through so many changes, it's perfectly possible the work you're doing now may not be in their future. If so, you won't be pushed.

Check Company Policy

The second realism to face while you look at your company's policy is whether or not your firm seems to push the hardest workers and most deserving people.

By all that's good and faithful this should, of course, be the case. And most of the time it is. But at the same time, in our present society and culture and with our sometimes mixed up values, there are exceptions to this rule.

The third realism to juggle is a good look at yourself. Are you really pushing enough in the viewpoint of your peers?

exactly as we are! So check your own opinions of yourself and your work with the opinions of others.

Then take your cue to your future from the answers you get, along with the conclusions you reach from the other factors.

For example, if from asking point-blank questions about the growth potential in your firm you sense some hidden reasons for not getting a push ahead, look for greener pastures in another spot. Or, if an honest picture of your company reflects the obvious fact that the people who get a head are not the should-be winners, go win the place that you deserve with another firm.

Add "Oomph"

If, on the other hand, the opinions of your peers indicate you're not being pushed because you're not pushing enough, add more "oomph" to the push that you're giving your job.

This can be your answer, too, because, with all else being equal, it's usually this extra "oomph" that adds up to a future!

(If you'd like to receive a list of books to help you get ahead, send me your request and a stamped self-addressed envelope in care of this newspaper.)

Recognize Yourself Here?

Something seems to happen to us women when we're giving a party. We fall into certain categories. It doesn't matter whether we're in our 30s, in our 40s, or "over 21." Our characteristics have nothing to do with our age. Do you recognize any of these cooks?

The Prima Donna — Whenever she goes in for a serious cooking session, she needs something that's not in the kitchen. Suppose she's going to bake a cake. The cannister may be full of regular flour, but she has her heart on pastry flour, cake flour, or the self-rising variety. The vanilla bottle may be empty, but what she needs is a vanilla bean or almond extract. Standard cake pans are at hand, but she can't bake this cake without a springform or a lugelhuft mold.

This tendency is hard on The Prima Donna's family who have to run around to supermarkets and hardware stores just when they're listening to some new records, birdwatching, or practicing putting. But if those around her can fulfill her every demand, they may end up by tasting some culinary work of art like Thousand Layer Cake. The Prima Donna is divine, and no one else can out-cook her.

The Budgeteer — No matter what cooking instructions — handwritten, printed, or tape-recorded — she has decided to follow, she revises them in the interest of economy. Suppose she picks up a modern French recipe for Soupe Vite calling for a can of tomato soup and a lavish amount of heavy cream and sherry. The Budgeteer ends up serving canned tomato soup diluted with evaporated milk and a thimbleful of sherry and garnishes it with some soggy leftover potato chips.

But to give The Budgeteer her due, she knows a few tricks that make her trade worthwhile to her and to you. She can fix a bottom round of beef so that it has a charcoal exterior, a perfection-pink interior, and cuts like butter.

The Laggard — Her clock always happens to be a couple of hours slow. So there's no use putting that roast in the oven because then dinner wouldn't be ready until midnight. Instead she heats some packages of frozen chicken a la king. But by the time she sets the table, runs out to get some bread for toast and makes a salad, you're eating at five minutes to 10. Of course she's always sure that what always happens will never happen again.

All this has its compensations. She's not half so good a cook as the people who put out the frozen chicken. The best part of knowing her is that when she comes to your house, you can with a free conscience serve her those TV dinners you just tossed together.

The Experimenteer — She's forever trying new recipes — from Turkey, Ghana, Brazil or Louisiana. If her friends think a new dish is absolutely superb, they can be certain they'll never taste it again. After all, The Experimenteer has new cuisines to conquer.

The main advantage of life with The Experimenteer, is that she provides excitement. At her house, taste buds have to be on the quiver.

The Perfect Hostess — She is completely sure of herself. She adores giving parties, never plans to do more than she can accomplish in an allotted time, and is everlastingly friendly and relaxed. She cooks like an angel, has a huge file of superb recipes, and always offers two desserts — a low-calorie concoction for stray dieters, and a spectacular sweet for normal human beings who are going to start weight-watching tomorrow. She herself wears size 10, and her well-manicured hands look as though no onion had ever crossed them. She insists that "parties are no trouble at all," and serves an abundance of delicious dishes.

Rate Griffith Bout Favorite

NEW YORK (AP)—Welterweight champion Luis Rodriguez, winner of his last 12 fights, was a 13-10 underdog Friday for his return title bout with ex-champion Emilio Griffith of New York Saturday night.

The odds may narrow down to even money by the time the fast-punching 147-pounder climbs into the Madison Square Garden ring for the 12-round television contest.

The bout will be telecast by ABC-TV, starting at 9 p.m. EST.

Clover Roster
Rodriguez, a clever boxer with nimble feet and shifty moves, defeated the two-time champion on a unanimous but close 15-round decision at Los Angeles last March 21.

Griffith hopes to become the first boxer ever to win the welterweight title three times. Sugar Ray Robinson boxed the middleweight division five times.

An aggressive fighter who wears down an opponent with body punches, Griffith says he will corner the elusive Cuban and whip him soundly.

"He runs like a horse, but I'm going to ride him this time," said the 24-year-old New Yorker. "I'm going to get him and knock him out."

"I'm going to knock him out," said the 26-year-old champion, who now lives in Miami. Luis smiles most of the time so it's hard to tell whether he is kidding or not.

"Knockout or no, I'm going to win it so big there won't be any questions about the fight," said Rodriguez. "Everyone will know I am the champion."

Chances of a knockout are slim. Neither has been stopped before.

Rodriguez has a 30-2 win-loss record, including 21 knockouts. Griffith's record is 35-4, including 13 knockouts.

Americans Bow In British Golf

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland (AP)—The last four Americans were knocked out of the British Amateur Golf Championship Friday, leaving Saturday's 36-hole final to two Englishmen.

The Yankee challenge disappeared in the semifinals with the defeat of Dr. Ed Updegraff of Tucson, Ariz., and Dr. Ron Lucetti of San Francisco.

MANTLE LEAVES BALTIMORE — Outfielder Mickey Mantle of the New York Yankees, who broke a bone in his left foot, leaves a Baltimore hotel on crutches en route to New York. Mantle is expected to be out of action for six weeks. He broke the bone running into a fence while trying to pull down Brooks Robinson's homer in game against the Orioles. (AP Wirephoto)

S-burg, West End Seek 7th Victories

STROUDSBURG and West End continue to share first place in the Pocono Mountain Baseball League with sparkling 6-1 records to lead their nearest competitors — Bushkill and Bowmanstown — by healthy three-game leads.

The league returns to action Sunday with the S-burg A's traveling to Bowmanstown and the West Enders playing host to Readers, four games off the pace with a 2-5 record. Say-lorsburg, in the league cellar with a 1-6 mark, is on the road for an engagement with Bushkill.

The two pace-setters have bowled over all opposition while splitting their own two games of the campaign so far — Stroudsburg trimming West End in the loop opener, and the Gilbert nine returning the compliment on Memorial Day to create the first-place tie.

John Churetta is the main reason for the success of the West End team to date. Before last Sunday's contests, Churetta had compiled a 5-0 pitching record with a dazzling 1.03 earned run average. At bat, he has contributed seven hits in 15 trips for a .467 average.

Jack Sommers, meanwhile has been the key man in the Stroudsburg attack, leading the PMBL with a .473 mark with 11 hits in 23 at-bats. Three of his hits have sailed for the distance while his six doubles also is high in the league. Karl Motta of the A's also been a strong and dependable hurler with a 3-0 record and a 2.33 earned average.

Following is the list of the leading batters in the PMBL circuit:

Sommers, .473; Ralph Kelper of Readers, and Harry Lewis of Bushkill, .462; Carl Beseker of Readers, .430; Darryl Bowman of Bowmanstown, .387; Bill Carson of Stroudsburg, .380; and Danny Patti of Bushkill and Robert Gombo of Bowmanstown, both with .360.

Floyd Kresge of West End also been another key figure in keeping his club at the top of the heap. His 10 RBIs is tops in the loop. While Sommers leads the circuit in both homers (3) and doubles (6), Saylorsburg's Jerry Bond has the most triples (4) and Bob Boyer of Bowmanstown leads with most stolen bases (4).

Trout Stocked In 3 Creeks

MT. POCONO — District Fish warden James Hazen last night announced that in-season stocking had been completed this week in three area creeks.

On Tuesday the Dotter, Middle and Pohoco Creeks were stocked. The Brookheads Creek, from the paper mill to Ananionix, also was stocked.

Hazen also reported two late catches in recent weeks. They were reported to him by officials at Saylor's Lake.

Mrs. Jennie Wimmer of Easton RD 2 caught a four-pound brown trout in Saylor's Lake. The fish was 23 and seven-eighths inches long.

Al Bariks of Bethlehem caught a three-pound, 11-ounce Tiger trout in the same lake. His fish measured 21 and three-quarters inches.

Both catches were made during the Memorial Day weekend.

Exhibition Tilt
BUSHKILL — The Bushkill club of the Pocono Mountain Baseball League will play Nazareth here in an exhibition game starting at 5 p.m.

'Final Decision' Is Set By MacArthur

NEW YORK (AP)—An obviously piqued Gen. Douglas MacArthur bluntly told a dissenting college group Friday that there will be no change in sanctioning procedures for open track and field meets.

Candy Spots 1-4 To Win Belmont

NEW YORK (AP)—Candy Spots was rated the odds-on favorite at 1-4 to capture the 96th Belmont Stakes, transplanted to Aqueduct, on Saturday as seven 3-year-old colts were officially entered for the last of the big Triple Crown events.

Agreement is unanimous, even among rival trainers, that Rex C. Ellsworth and trainer Mosh Tenney from California have the solid horse for the tough 1 1/4-mile classic. On the other hand, they point out, none of the starters' eye ever has been asked to travel that distance.

There is only one way to find out, and that is to try on Candy Spots for size. The lanky chestnut was 3-2 favorite for the 1 1/4-mile Kentucky Derby May 4 and finished third. He was 3-2 favorite for the 1 3/4-mile Preakness May 18, and won.

Route Favorites
Since New York legalized pari-mutuels in 1930, 10 of 16 odds-on favorites in the Belmont have been beaten.

John W. Galbreath's Chateaugay, who won the Derby but finished second in the Preakness, is listed as second choice at 4-1, with Patrice Jacobs' Bonjour next at 8-1. Rounding out the field are Louis Lee Huggins' 2nd's Choker and C. V. Whitney's Tom Cat, both 20-1; George D. Widener's Top Gallant, 2-1; and Wheatley Stable's Insurrection, 30-1. All will pack 125 pounds, same as for the Derby and Preakness.

The race was shifted this spring from Belmont Park, where it had been run since 1905. The stands there are unsafe.

After he routed his Preakness foes, Candy Spots stopped off at Garden State Park and grabbed the Jersey Derby — his fourth $100,000 haul of the season. Earlier he won the Santa Anita and Florida Derbies.

With seven going the Belmont will gross $245,450, the win-

Tigers Topple Yanks

DETROIT (AP)—The Detroit Tigers erupted for two four-run rallies and handed the crippled New York Yankees their fifth loss in six games Friday night, 8-3.

Hank Aguirre, ahead 8-0 after four innings, posted his fifth victory for the fifth time in six games. The Yankees, playing without the injured Mickey Mantle and Tony Kubek, crumbled defensively in the first inning and the Tigers scored four times off Bill Stafford.

Al Kaline cracked a three-run homer in the first after the Yankees failed to cover first base on two successive plays, letting Jake Wood and Billy Bruton reach base on infield hits.

CHICAGO (AP)—The Los Angeles Dodgers, aided by back-to-back homers by Frank Howard and John Roseboro and strikeout artist Don Drysdale's steady hurling, snapped the hot Chicago Cubs' five-game win string 4-1 Friday.

The defeat joined the sizzling Cubs out of a tie for first place in the National League.

The Cubs had won 11 of their previous 13 starts.

SOMETHING OLD SOMETHING NEW

These—without anything borrowed or blue—can give to her Wedding Day the sure promise of happiness.

Something old? A faith in God such as has been the foundation of life for millions of Christians before her. A simple conviction found in the religious instruction she received as a child, nurtured in regular worship at Church, ready to go with her through the years.

Something new? A love for the one she has consented to marry. A tender devotion that will grow richer and deeper as they share the sunshine and shadows of life.

With these two—the "something old" that lives in her soul, and the "something new" that thrills in her heart—she comes to her husband. And if he comes to her bearing the same treasures, their marriage cannot fail!

THE CHURCH FOR ALL...
ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake, (2) For his children's sake, (3) For the sake of his community and nation, (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.
